Directors Notes: When I was choosing this seasons theme, I was drawn to one theme, "Walk a Mile in Your Shoes". I think as young individuals, it is important to learn how to look at different perspectives. Is there any show more perfect than The Odd Couple for that? As characters Olive and Florence really have to get used to the way the others live, along with all their unique quirks about them. As an audience member, you start to see both sides of the characters and why they are the way that they are. While neither may be right or wrong, it is important that everyone understands the other.

Special Thanks:

There is also many thanks that needs to be involved in a production. First, thank you to Terry for helping to create such an amazing set for us again. Thank you to Raychel Willis and Natalie Kuhle for being our designers for this show and helping alleviate some of the many tasks a director goes through. Thank you to the wonderful Stage Managers that helped take notes and step in during rehearsals while an actor may have been out. Thank you to Lucy Ward for being our go to designer for the T-Shirts and any posters. Thank you to the cast for always coming to rehearsal with a great attitude and really putting on such a fun show.
